Brothers and Sisters,

This weekend, we celebrate America's workers. We celebrate the men and women who work tirelessly to keep our great nation running. We celebrate you.

The coronavirus pandemic proved something to everyday Americans that proud union members have always known: Without working people, life would look very different -- our workforce keeps the lights on, stocks the shelves at grocery stores, delivers the mail, and provides vital care to vulnerable patients.

And the list goes on...

Workers harvest grain, fly planes, and mentor troubled youth.

Then, there's each of you. You are the talented, dedicated men and women who shape skylines.

You fix elevators that allow persons using wheelchairs to go about their daily routine. What's more, in the midst of a global pandemic, you ensured hospitals could safely move patients from floor to floor. You were, and still are, our country's greatest asset.

As you enjoy the holiday weekend with your family, friends, and loved ones, please be safe. I look forward to speaking and meeting with you soon.

God Bless – Stay Interested, Involved, and Informed,

Lenny
